Glendale. Utah.

June 27. 1933

J. H. Humpherys. State Engineer.
Salt Lake City. Utah.

My Dear Sir:—

The Glendale Irrigation Company has at last complied with your request. We have been slow in doing so because so many are busy and others are away. We are glad to coperate with you in any and every way we can for the good of the water users. We have selected Joseph F. Smith of Glendale and hope he will render good service and satisfaction. I suppose you will furnish him with the information he will need in the new work. May I ask a question or two. All of the water in what is known as the Factory or Chamberlain Lake was decreed to Thomas Chamberlain in what is called the McCarty Decree. Now one of the Chamberlain boys "or man" living seven miles north on a ranch that has not any water ~~write~~ right. Has made arrangements with his brothers who own the Factory lake, to turn the stream in to the creek just north of Glendale, and then he wants to take ~~out~~ the same amount out of the creek that runs through his ranch. Now the question is, can he do so according to law, or does that water at the Factory lake, belong to the water users below, when they haven't any use for it on their Factory, Farm? and in case he can legally take the water, will he not have to pay the water Commissioner for measuring the Factory stream in to the Creek, and the stream he takes out of the creek? I hope I have been able to make my question clear to you. Mr Chamberlain called on me, and I didn't know to answer him. I expect he will call again, and I want to be on the right side any information along this line will be appreciated.

Very truly yours

Glendale Irrigation Co

Marcellus Johnson.

President.

RECEIVED
JUN 30 1933
State Engineer's Office