Dear Mr Bacon

Replying to your recent favor relative to the appointment of an Engineer to decide certain waters here beg leave to say that the weather has been so fickle this spring that it has changed all past records in that there has been practically no high water to decide a few days of sun and then a few days of cool weather so that we have not felt justified in asking for help up to the present and there will likely be no high water after the present cold season.

The slow melting of snow had made it difficult for prior nights - to get over this land when time fell in cold periods We knew there would not be much high water but had the weather been warm continuously there would have been from one to 3 weeks of flush water

At the present however it looks as if the high water season is past for this year

This of course would mean no help will be required

Will state Mr Boen gave splendid satisfaction at time that he did serve and when needed would be pleased with him again.

Thanking you very kindly for your interest in this matter

I am respectfully
