Dear Water User:

Please find enclosed this year's water assessment for water used by your company during 2002. You will notice there are two assessment notices in your company's name. The second notice covers the water use by the change and/or exchange application water users under your system. During the annual meeting of the Provo River Water Users annual distribution meeting held January 10, 2002, it was the unanimous vote of that body to assess those water users who have filed exchange applications based upon shares of stock and/or change applications on the base water right in the various irrigation companies. Section 73-5-1 Utah Code Annotated, 1953, states the duties of the river commissioner shall be to monitor the use of water by these exchange and change applications users. The assessment based upon these applications will be used to compensate the commissioner for monitoring their water use.

The two assessment notices sent to you are to help distinguish the primary water right from that water used under change and exchange applications. The second assessment notice represents the quantity of water being used by the exchange and change application users. Your entire water right is reflected by totaling the two assessment notices received by you.

If it is your desire to assess your individual change or exchange applicants, we have included a mailing list of the change and exchange application users involved.

If you have questions regarding the above, feel free to call me at (801) 538-7431.

Sincerely,

John S. Larsen
