

Response to South Jordan Canal Company:

I understand your concern regarding the conflict between protecting the primary rights on Utah Lake while at the same time maintaining Utah Lake at a manageable level. It is the intent of the distribution plan to accomplish both. However, I also realize that keeping the lake at a manageable level may cause an increase in pumping costs for the Utah Lake rights. If Utah Lake is operated at a lower elevation, then some type of compensation for the increased pumping costs may be justified.
